

Planning to Study Abroad as a Psyc Major

Frequently Asked Questions

Do I need to take the classes in the exact order as listed on the 4-year plan?

No! The 4-year plans offer examples of how to integrate a study abroad semester into your time at Winthrop. Psychology is a very flexible major in that it has very few sequenced courses. However, we do recommend taking PSYC 100, 198, 301, 302, and at least one PSYC “core” course prior to studying abroad. The semesters in which you take remaining General Education, major, and minor classes are very flexible.

Can I only study abroad during the semester listed on 4-year plan?

For most of the Winthrop study abroad programs you can swap the study abroad semester with Fall year 3, Spring year 3, or Fall year 4. We recommend Fall year 3 especially for students who are interested in applying to graduate school. Some of the programs may only be attended during the Spring semester (this is indicated on the 4-year plan for the program), for these programs we suggest that you study abroad Spring year 3.

Do I have to take the exact classes listed during the study abroad semester?

No, many of these programs offer a number of courses that meet General Education requirements. Some of the 4-year plans include footnotes indicating the other General Education requirements that may be met at the University. Additionally, electives can be taken during the semester abroad. The study abroad office will assist students in determining which courses will transfer prior to departure.

How were these programs selected? Can I choose other programs?

The sample plans are all “Winthrop programs” meaning that they are study abroad sites where tuition/room/board costs are similar to those at WU (i.e., generally most affordable). Additionally, scholarships, grants, and loans (including LIFE, Pell, etc.) transfer to these institutions. The sample plans are only a subset of the programs in this category. The most up-to-date complete list of Winthrop programs is available through the WU Study Abroad office: <http://winthrop.abroadoffice.net/index.html>

Are there additional costs associated with studying abroad through these programs?

Yes, additional costs include: airfare, passport, spending money, student visa, and CISI international travel insurance .

Can I get funding to help me pay for study abroad?

Yes, please visit the ONCA website for information about financial awards:

<https://www.winthrop.edu/onca/>

Where do I find additional information regarding the study abroad programs/applications?

Please visit the WU study abroad office website for additional information:
