College of Visual & Performing Arts Manifesto

We are ArtsWinthrop. We are an impassioned and experienced faculty of professionals and scholars committed to challenging you to become the artist you want to be. We offer nationally accredited programs in the visual arts, dance, design, theatre, and music, providing demanding instruction in an interdisciplinary environment that inspires and prepares the next generation of responsible citizens of the creative class — the makers, performers, designers, educators, and influencers. We believe that the arts are an expression of our culture’s values; are a driver of innovation and a catalyst for the economy; and have an obligation to positively affect social change by contributing to our cultural and political discourse. We recognize the inherent responsibility of the artist as a leader in defining culture and lifestyle—what we see and hear, the products we use, the environments we inhabit, and how we communicate. We are certain that there is no greater profession – no greater calling in life – than this. We are ArtsWinthrop.

College of Visual & Performing Arts Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Statement

The College of Visual and Performing Arts is committed to providing a learning environment that is inclusive and respectful of diverse communities. As creators, we have the power to raise awareness, create meaningful change, and impact social justice—empowering students to become informed, responsible citizens. We are dedicated to being a community of creatives who promote and advance students independent of gender identity, race, ethnicity, national origin, religious affiliation, sexual orientation, socioeconomic background, political beliefs, age, and other social identities and life experiences. The ArtsWinthrop community encourages and appreciates expressions of different ideas, opinions, and beliefs. Listening to and respecting individual differences is critical in transforming a collection of diverse individuals into an inclusive, collaborative, and creative learning community, where we take responsibility for our actions and treat everyone with dignity.

The Arts in Basic Curriculum (ABC) Institute is a resource-oriented partnership between the College of Visual and Performing Arts (CVPA), South Carolina Arts Commission, and the South Carolina Department of Education (SCDE). Our vision that every student in South Carolina has equitable access to quality arts education. It is ABC Institute's mission to provide leadership to achieve quality, comprehensive arts education (dance, media, music, theatre, visual, and creative writing) for all students in South Carolina. In pursuit of our mission, the ABC Institute offers programs and services intended to strengthen the relationship between practitioners, researchers, and policy makers in education.

Best Practices

ABC Schools Certification Program

With generous support from the SCAC, the ABC School Certification celebrates SC schools with exemplary commitments of funds, time, and resources in order to provide students access to quality arts education. Additionally, ABC schools recognize how the arts contribute to student development and the transformative influence on and in the school community, therefore, embrace teaching and learning through the arts.

ABC Network

The ABC Network is an inclusive community of educators, administrators and advocates of both in- and out-of-school experiences in and through the arts. The Network is served through a variety of digital platforms, the "Arts in Basic Curriculum" mobile app (available for Apple and Android devices). In collaboration with various state partners, ABC Institute is charged with securing quality arts education and arts integration content for the following:

- SCDE's Instruction Hub, <https://ed.sc.gov/instruction/instruction-hub/>
- SC Educational Television's KnowItAll: <https://www.knowitall.org/>
- Arts Grow SC's One Stop Workshop: <https://onestopworkshop.vfairs.com/>

Policy

South Carolina Arts in Education Advisory Council

The ABC Institute assembles the SC Arts in Education Advisory Council to provide valuable, diverse perspectives on issues, concerns, challenges and opportunities that may influence and impact arts education and arts integration during the school day, in out-of-school programs, and summer learning in SC. Council members represent a wide spectrum of leaders in the arts and arts education, as well as individuals who can provide civic, government, and cultural perspectives.

South Carolina Arts in Education Forum

The SC Arts in Education Forum is a one-day event that connects leaders from within K-12 education, institutes of higher education, state agencies and cultural organizations. The purpose of the gathering is to engage dialogue on various topics connected to learning in and through the arts, such as but not limited to: traditional and innovative instructional practices, research on the contributions of arts learning on student development, alternative certification, and rural arts community programs.

Research

The ABC Institute seeks to conduct and collaborate with others on research of various issues, correlations, and phenomenon related to arts education in order to better understand the significance of learning in and through the arts on student development. The two most recent projects are provided as examples.

- The Research, Evaluation, and Measurement Center at University of South Carolina was contracted to explore correlations between investments in arts education programs to SC school report card indicators.
- ABC Schools have served as the purposeful sample in “Measuring Student Engagement in Arts-Rich Schools”. <https://www.palmettoartsed.org/gallup.html>

2B2. Credit Hour Policies and Faculty Load Policies

Credit Hour and Time Load Policies

“Load” is normally defined here as the number of primary organized course sections taught in an academic year – in fall and spring terms or semesters combined. Independent instruction is not normally included in the load measure, although direct supervision of graduate theses/projects can be counted in faculty loads if approved by the department chair and dean. Teaching loads for department chairs are approved by the dean and are calculated in proportion to the administrative load of the department.

The determination of load can also take into account class size and number of preparations. Deviations from the normal departmental teaching load must be negotiated in advance with the department chair/director and approved by the dean. Reductions in teaching loads should not entail financial loss to the college and, where possible, should provide the college with financial support. Faculty must obtain approval of the department chair and dean before applying for external funding. Such proposals should be discussed with the department chair and dean well in advance of the proposal deadline.

Overload Policy:

To ensure that quality in our courses remains high and that faculty have time to remain current in both their subject area and technology, adequate time to meet with individual students, and time to grade substantive written and creative work, the College has an interest in making sure that faculty do not take on excessive amounts of work. Full-time faculty appointments require a full commitment of working time and effort and full-time faculty are expected to complete their primary assignments regardless of the time required. This work is to be accomplished without overload compensation. However, teaching overload compensation may be offered in limited and restricted situations of special need, with each case approved on an individual basis.

Full-time faculty all have regular teaching loads designated by their department chairs. These loads differ depending their responsibilities and disciplines. Whatever a faculty member’s basic load, a faculty member should take on no more than one additional course per semester (up to 3 credit hours). This does not include independent study classes or graduate thesis/project supervision. Overloads must be documented and approved by the chair and dean prior to beginning the overload assignment.

Class Size:

Due to the nature of the various arts disciplines, studio courses typically allow lower enrollment than lecture and seminar courses. Enrollment of introductory lecture and seminar courses (i.e. those often taken by non-majors for general education credit such as Music Appreciation or Art History) should typically not exceed 60. Upper division course enrollments for lecture and seminar courses would typically cap at 30. Graduate course enrollments should typically not exceed 20. Online Course enrollments typically should not exceed 25.

Course Caps:

In setting course caps, the chair will consult the faculty responsible for teaching the course and will consider student academic needs. Course caps will be set by the Department Chair, with approval of the Dean. Generally, courses must meet minimum enrollments of: lower division courses - 15; upper division courses - 10; graduate courses - 8. These minimums may be adjusted by the Dean in order to accommodate students who need certain courses in order to graduate. Should students need to enroll in a closed section, the chair will make the decision and notify the faculty member. Enrollment limits may also be determined by classroom size and safety considerations.

Teaching schedules:

The Chair will consult with the faculty member before the teaching schedule is set. The Chair, with approval of the Dean, will set the teaching schedule to accommodate the learning needs of students. In cases of emergency, the Chair and/or Dean may make assignments without prior consultation, but this should happen in rare circumstances. Faculty will receive a written teaching schedule no later than six weeks before the start of the semester, except in cases of an emergency. Note: Department chairs may make teaching schedule changes at any time due to class cancellations, re-assignments, and other circumstances.

Preparations:

In most departments, every effort is generally made so that faculty will have no more than two new course preparations each semester.

Graduate Thesis/Project Supervision:

Recognizing the work necessary to complete graduate theses and projects, faculty with permission from the Dean may receive load credit or a stipend for supervision of theses or projects when students are enrolled in thesis/project courses for credit. Thesis/Project committee members or readers do not receive load credit or stipends.

Independent Studies:

Normally, no load credit or compensation will be provided to faculty supervising undergraduate independent studies. Department chairs, with approval of the Dean, may assign load credit in unusual circumstances. Load credit or stipends may be provided to faculty teaching graduate independent studies classes with recommendation of the department chair and approval of the dean.

Summer Teaching Load:

In general, faculty will teach no more than six hours during the summer session. Exceptions to this policy will be made only under unusual circumstances and under the following conditions:

1. One of the courses is taught during Maymester;
2. The appointment has the approval of the Department Chair and the Dean.

2B3. CVPA COURSE LOADS FOR FULL-TIME FACULTY

Generally, full-time faculty are expected to teach the equivalent of a minimum of 12 credit hours each semester, or maximum of 18 contact hours, whichever is met first. Because studio courses, practicum courses, and ensembles require more contact hours than lecture or seminar per credit, the load for faculty teaching a combination of these types of course may result in less than 12 credits and/or 18 contact hours, but should not ordinarily result in less than 15 contact hours. All courses regardless of type (lecture, studio, practicum, etc.) expect a minimum of two (2) hours of out-of-class time per credit hour by the students. Contact hours are rounded up from scheduled class meeting times. One credit hour constitutes 50 minutes of class time per week, but is rounded up to 1 contact hour.

Fine Arts

Lecture / Seminar courses 1:1 – 1 credit hour / 1 contact hour
 Studio courses (6 hrs/wk) 1:2 – 1 credit hour / 2 contact hours
 Studio courses (4.5 hrs/wk) 1:1.5 – 1 credit hour / 1.5 contact hours

 3-credit studio courses that meet for 4.5 hours per week instead of 6, require that the students participate in an additional 1.5 hours of studio time each week.*

Design

Lecture / Seminar courses 1:1 – 1 credit hour / 1 contact hour
 Studio courses 1:2 – 1 credit hour / 2 contact hours
 Studio courses (6 hrs/wk) 1:2 – 1 credit hour / 2 contact hours
 Studio courses (4.5 hrs/wk) 1:1.5 – 1 credit hour / 1.5 contact hours

 3-credit studio courses that meet for 4.5 hours per week instead of 6, require that the students participate in an additional 1.5 hours of studio time each week.*

Theatre and Dance

Lecture / Seminar courses 1:1 – 1 credit hour / 1 contact hour

 Faculty doing creative work for the department (directing, choreography, etc.) may have this work count as re-assigned time ... amount to be determined by the chair with approval of the dean.*

Dance

Studio Technique courses 1:3 – 1 credit hour / 3 contact hours

 Dance Studio Technique majors meet for an additional 10 minutes/week*

Theatre

Practicum (technical) courses 1:4 – 1 credit hour / 4 contact hours

Practicum (production / rehearsal) 1:6 – 1 credit hour / 6 contact hours *

 1 credit production / rehearsal courses are typically held for 6 weeks, and meet for the equivalent of 15 hours per week. The number of hours dedicated to rehearsal, technical rehearsals, dress rehearsals, performances, and post-performance assessment consume a minimum of 90 contact hours during the semester (6 weeks x 15 hrs per week). This is equivalent to 6 contact hours per week in a typical 15-week semester, therefore faculty are loaded 6 contact hours.*

Music

Lecture / Seminar courses 1:1 – 1 credit hour / 1.5 contact hours

Studio 1:1 – 1 credit hour / 1 contact hour

Ensembles (2 hours per/wk) 1:2 – 1 credit hour / 2 contact hours

Ensembles (3 hours per/wk) 1:3 – 1 credit hour / 3 contact hours

Large Ensembles (2 or 3 hours/wk) 1:4 – 1 credit hour / 4 contact hours

Contact hours for large ensembles are calculated using class meeting time, class prep time, performances, and tours.*

Applied Lessons

1:0.5 – 1 credit hours / 0.5 contact hours

Because private lessons have variable credit and time offering, load is calculated at 1 contact hour for 2 credit hours (60-minute lesson) and 0.5 contact hours for 1 credit hour (30-minute lesson).*

Educator Preparation Program Internship Supervision

1:1 – 1 student / 1 contact hour

Total supervision for the semester for each intern supervised = 15 hours

Example: 3 students = 45 hours = 3 contact hours

(Based on the Educator Preparation Program guidelines adopted 2016): “The average time required to supervise an Internship I student is approximately 14 hours. For Internship II, the time commitment is closer to 17 hours. This includes all work involved in supervision (attending meetings, reviewing lesson plans, conducting observations, etc.) with an average travel distance of 20 miles one-way. When equating these hours to the model for course preparation and delivery (3-hour course = 45 semester contact hours x 3 additional preparation hours) and taking into account that each intern presents individual needs ... “

Stacked courses

Since beginning, intermediate, and advanced studio classes may sometimes be “piggybacked” or “stacked” and meet at the same day and time, these classes do not count as separate classes in a faculty member’s teaching load. Per accreditation guidelines, graduate students enrolled in a single course that carries a separate undergraduate and graduate designation or number (but are considered stacked) must complete specific published requirements that are at a graduate level. Distinctions between undergraduate and graduate expectations must be delineated for such courses.

Online Courses

Online and hybrid courses are viewed as lecture or seminar courses and faculty are loaded accordingly. In cases where a FT faculty member is developing an online course in addition to delivering it, additional load may be granted with chair and dean approval.

Turn teaching / Team Teaching

“Turn teaching” involves two or more faculty teaching a single course, which may or may not be cross-referenced, with each faculty member having responsibility for some but not all of the class content and scheduled meetings. When turn teaching, assigned faculty receive an appropriate portion of the load depending on the number of credits or contact hours.

Example: 3 credit course / 6 contact hours “turn taught” by two faculty would allot 1.5 credits / 3 contact hours to each faculty member, assuming responsibility was evenly split.

“Team teaching” involves two or more faculty teaching a single course, which may or may not be cross-referenced, with each faculty member sharing equal responsibility for all of the class content and scheduled meetings. When team teaching, assigned faculty receive two-thirds of the load depending on the number of credits or contact hours.

Example: 3 credit course / 6 contact hours “team taught” by two faculty would allot 2 credits / 4 contact hours to each faculty member. Upon recommendation from the chair, the dean may approve a full load for faculty when team teaching if warranted.

Overload pay for team and turn teaching is not guaranteed and should be approved by the chair and dean before a faculty member takes the assignment.

2B4. Office Hours

Faculty members are required to maintain office hours and post the hours on their respective office doors and include on course syllabi. While the number of office hours is not fixed, it is assumed that each faculty member will maintain office hours that are convenient and adequate for the students to arrange conferences pertaining to their work. The schedule of office hours must be submitted to the Department Chair at the beginning of each semester.

CVPA Faculty Class & Office Schedule form (for editable version, use Google Chrome)

2B5. Faculty Participation in Student Recruitment and Orientation

Student recruitment and orientation activities fall under the categories of “academic responsibility” and “professional Stewardship” for all faculty members. Faculty members have the responsibility to assist with student recruitment and orientation initiatives. Although these activities (Preview Days, Orientations, etc.) are typically coordinated by the Admissions Office and Student Affairs, faculty members are needed at each event. Regardless of what faculty teach, all faculty members have knowledge and enthusiasm that can assist students in making a decision to attend Winthrop University (recruitment) or assist them in becoming acclimated upon arrival to campus (orientation).

2B6. CVPA Faculty Parting Obligations

There is no mandated retirement age for Winthrop faculty. Faculty planning to resign their appointments or retire should give written notice at the earliest opportunity in order to permit the institution adequate time to select replacements. Professional courtesy dictates that notification of resignation or retirement be given no later than March 1st. At the conclusion of his/her employment at the University, each faculty member is expected to:

- Insure that all financial obligations to the university are satisfactorily resolved (the University Library, Parking, Cashier’s Office, etc.);
- Return all library books;
- Return Purchasing Card to Departmental Liaison;
- Return all university-owned equipment (including computers, tablets, cameras, etc.) and supplies;
- Submit all grades. [File grades for all incompletes and/or inform dept. chair of incompletes still outstanding & work students need to complete & deadline];
- File all online grades and electronic grade sheets/hard copy grade books and departmental material with the department chair;
- Remove all personal effects from his/her office and building;
- Clean office computer of all personal files and special passwords;
- Return keys to the department office;

Other information:

Faculty members who resign or whose contracts are not renewed will not have access to their Winthrop e-mail after their employment ends.

Administrative Assistants are instructed to process the removal of faculty member's name/log-in information from all digital security systems at the University (including Banner, wingspan, CUI, shared drives, Dropbox, and other departmental, college, and committee digital access).

Faculty members ending employment at the University should complete all appropriate parting obligations by the final day of their appointment period. If circumstances prevent adherence to this deadline, faculty should contact their department chairs or the dean.

2C. Roles and Responsibilities of Department Chairs

Department chairs are faculty members who are appointed by the Chief Academic Officer, based upon a recommendation from the dean. The Department Chair Policy - Appointment, Roles, Evaluation, and Compensation, can be viewed here. Their appointment is reviewed annually based upon performance as evaluated by the dean, with feedback from faculty in the department. Specifically, Department Chairs in the College of Visual & Performing Arts have a duty and responsibility to:

- Ensure that faculty evaluations are conducted in accordance with the policies and procedures of the College and University;
- Review the member's performance at least once a year;
- Attempt to solve faculty and student problems;
- Conduct departmental meetings;
- Act as a liaison with other units and administrators;

2D. Roles and Responsibilities of Academic Program Directors

Degree programs are directed by the chair of the department in which the program resides or an academic program director, a full-time faculty member with credentials in the respective discipline, when required by accreditation or determined by the dean as necessary. The chair retains the primary responsibility for the degree program even if a faculty member is designated as a director. When an academic program does not reside within a department or unit, a full-time faculty member with credentials in the respective discipline may be appointed as program director by the dean.

In cases where a full-time faculty member serves as an academic program director, the following duties are assigned:

Such an environment fosters academic freedom in both teaching and scholarship for all faculty members. In teaching, the College safeguards faculty members' rights to tell the truth as they discover it, to discuss controversial matters related to their disciplines, and to hold divergent views. Similarly, the College preserves faculty members’ freedoms to engage in scholarly and creative activities and to publish their findings and perform and present their work, subject to the satisfactory performance of their other academic duties.

Promotion recognizes the maturity of the faculty member as teacher, scholar, and working artist and designer and is awarded based upon merit. In providing for the long-term protection of its faculty, the College also offers the prospect of tenure to eligible faculty members who are viewed as valued colleagues by their peers. Tenure is a means of ensuring the continuous freedom to teach, study, and conduct extramural activities. It also provides a degree of economic security, making the profession attractive to persons of ability. Tenure is indispensable to the College's efforts to meet its obligations to students and to a democratic society where the free exchange of ideas are essential.

The faculty in the College of Visual and Performing Arts represent a diverse array of academic and creative talents, and accomplishments. Accordingly, the process for promotion or the awarding of tenure should be applied with sufficient flexibility to recognize and capitalize on diverse individual attributes.

At the end of every semester, all students who are enrolled in CVPA courses (or enrolled in any courses where CVPA faculty members are their instructors) receive email prompts to follow a link to the survey. Once the survey closes and grades are submitted, faculty members have digital access to the aggregated survey results for the courses they taught. Faculty members use this student perception data to inform their reflections on their contributions to student intellectual development.

To that end, the College engages in continual efforts aimed at student retention. Retention is a college-wide responsibility which requires involvement at program, department, and unit levels. All CVPA faculty are responsible for assisting students to achieve their academic goals in a timely manner.

5B. Advising

Faculty should be familiar with the Academic Advising section of the Winthrop University Policies website and the advising information on the CVPA Student Services webpage.

5B1. General Considerations

- Neither Department Chairs nor the Dean should interfere with advisement unless there is evidence of a major conflict, violations of University policy, or the student asks for an appeal of an advisor's decision.
- All undergraduate students will be assigned a faculty advisor by their major Department.
- Faculty have a right to expect support to enhance the advising process.
- Faculty have a responsibility to remain current with all policies, procedures, and curricula of the College and University.

- Faculty in the College of Visual & Performing Arts share a number of basic skills and interests; therefore, faculty should be free to advise students across the different degree programs, using subject-expert faculty for support.
- Students should see the faculty advisors at least once each semester.
- To facilitate the advisement process, faculty should post a reasonable schedule of office hours and adhere to the posted schedule.

- The advisement process in CVPA should be evaluated annually by students and faculty members. Faculty advisors should incorporate the evaluation of advising within the annual reporting and goal setting process.

students or those changing majors. Academic advising at Winthrop is an integral part of the learning process through which students are advised of degree requirements, course sequencing, career opportunities, and campus resources. The responsibilities of a faculty advisor are many. Three of the most valuable resources the advisor has are Degree Works, the Winthrop University Catalog located on the Records and Registration website, and NAVIGATE.

Other responsibilities are summarized below:

Although this advising period is important to the student, advising is a continuous process. Good advisors seek out opportunities to provide their expertise on academics and career topics under conditions that are not forced or time constrained. The frequency and quality of contacts with advisors outside of class have been linked to student satisfaction with the institution and their advisor.

Academic advising requires a substantial amount of knowledge and energy to be successful and to support a continuous process of student growth. This process stimulates responsible decision-making by encouraging and advising developing young adults.

Ultimately, each student is responsible for understanding and completing all degree requirements and making career-oriented decisions.

The administrator will provide a decision in writing to the student, normally 10 business days following the receipt of the complaint. The student has 10 business days to appeal the college administrator's decision in writing to the Dean of the College of Visual and Performing Arts. The dean may call together an advisory committee to review the appeal and examine the complaint. The dean will issue a statement in writing to the student normally within 10 business days of the receipt of the appeal. The Director of Winthrop University Galleries is designated by the University to supervise the operations of the Edmund D. The Director reports to the Dean of the College of Visual and Performing Arts. The Director may request to attend Fine Arts faculty and Design faculty meetings to insure good communication and a good working relationship between Winthrop University Galleries and the Department of Fine Arts and Department of Design.

The Director is responsible for the planning and coordination of a continuous program of exhibitions, gallery educational programs, public relations, outreach and patron projects and gallery activities with the three galleries of the College. The Director develops the long range exhibition schedule, facilitates all agreements and necessary arrangements, assists in development initiatives, and organizes preparation and mounting of exhibitions in each gallery in accordance with the College of Visual and Performing Exhibition Policy.

College of Visual and Performing Exhibition Policy:

This policy is intended to govern all exhibitions supported by the College of Visual and Performing Arts and recognizes that the responsibility and authority for all exhibitions supported by the College of Visual and Performing Arts rests with the Dean (responsibility and authority for the Elizabeth Dunlap Gallery and the Rutledge Gallery are delegated by the Dean to the Gallery Director). These exhibitions include professionally curated, juried or faculty exhibitions housed in the Elizabeth Dunlap Patrick Gallery and the Rutledge Gallery or on the university grounds.

The Exhibition Policy of Winthrop University affirms the institution's commitment to free inquiry and discovery as essential ingredients of intellectual development and the educational process. Central to this mission is the establishment of a creative environment in which all students are challenged to develop aesthetic perception and understanding.

The College of Visual and Performing Arts promotes the concept that art and design are a viable and integral part of the human experience and, accordingly, an important component of all Winthrop University students' educational experience. The role of art and design programs at Winthrop is to promote creation that represents the discipline and craft associated with works of high quality. Thus, Winthrop fully accepts its role as a forum for public examination of issues as part of its educational mission. These concepts are supported by the guidelines set forth below and encourage opportunities to encounter art and design on campus. As the academic unit responsible for art and design education at Winthrop University, the College determines the conditions of exhibitions in accordance with established guidelines and practices.

Winthrop University and the College of Visual and Performing Arts reserve the right to remove any work from exhibition or presentation that may be in violation of the law or is hazardous to the health and safety of viewers or participants. It is the practice of the College of Visual and Performing Arts to place appropriate public notices regarding potentially controversial exhibits.
