GIVING DAY 2024

April 16 - 17 (noon - noon)

Our annual giving day, is a special occasion for our community to come together and show their support for the causes and programs they are passionate about.

This year, there is a rare opportunity to TRIPLE your gift to the Winthrop University College of Visual and Performing Arts. An anonymous Winthrop Alumni, aka "Arts Lover," has generously agreed to match your gift 3 TIMES to provide tuition scholarships to undergraduate students in the College of Visual and Performing Arts.

Any donation, no matter the size, to the Visual and Performing Arts Tuition Grant Fund, will be tripled!

Help us reach our goal of raising $15,000, so that we can give current ArtsWinthrop students up to $60,000 in scholarship funds!

Together, we can ensure that the arts remain a cornerstone of education and a source of inspiration for generations to come.

To contribute to the College of Visual and Performing Arts, please visit the giving day website: <http://www.winthrop.edu/dayofgiving/cvpa>

By William Shakespeare

From historic feud to ill-fated union, Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet finds new significance in Winthrop's intimate Studio Theatre. Verona is sick. Its structures broken and its citizens in a state of desperation. When a system favours the few, the many are left with nothing but unhealthy choices. Admst the violence, bloodshed, fear and unrest, two teenagers find unexpected relief in each other. But will love be enough to save them from Society's sickness?

MATERIAL HISTORIES

APRIL 9, 2024

11 A.M.

RUTLEDGE 119

Asa Jackson is an American artist, curator, and director based in Virginia. As a multidisciplinary artist, Jackson's work explores the cross section of textile from various countries, peoples, time periods, and personal histories. His works are often anthropological studies, representing the lives of myriad people, their collective and individual stories. By cutting and sewing fabrics together, Jackson metaphorically mixes cultures, time periods, people and places into unified works of art.

Summer course option...

M E D I E V A L

This course investigates the visual culture of medieval monsters and the monstrous. Dragons, gargoyles, sea monsters, cephalophores, sciapods, aliens, terrors, and other wonders will be considered in their social, political, and religious contexts. We will examine how monsters participated in constructs of cultural identity, gender, race, class, and ethnicity in medieval Europe and explore what images of monsters can reveal about fears of the “other,” shifting social hierarchies, warfare, disease, death, and other anxieties. In lieu of exams, students will imagine and create their own medieval monsters related to course topics. No prerequisites.

M O N S T E R S

Prof. Kyle Sweeney

ARTH 311X / MDST 350 | Online | July 8–Aug. 7

Attention Art and Design Students! Need a summer course?

Dragons, unicorns, gargoyles, and other curious creatures are some of the most enduring legacies of the European Middle Ages. Learn more about the visual culture of medieval monsters online (asynchronous) this summer in ARTH 311X (July 8–Aug. 7).

This art history course will appeal to folks interested not only in the Middle Ages, but fantasy, medievalisms/popular culture, monster studies, gaming, myths, legends, history, and Game of Thrones. In lieu of exams, students will keep a Monster Research Journal and design/create their own medieval monsters related to course topics. There are no prerequisites.

This will be a small online class so if it is of interest to you, then be sure to register on March 20. Advising is not required for summer classes. If you have any questions or encounter any difficulties registering for the course, please contact Dr. Sweeney (sweeneyk@winthrop.edu).
