

Advising Meeting Checklist

Advising sessions are an opportunity for you to be proactive in raising the key issues related to your progress toward graduation and your preparation for what your next step(s) might be. Since your situation and questions may be unique, your advisor does not necessarily know which specific issues you may need to address. You should complete the following checklist and email it to your advisor at least one day in advance of your meeting, so they can respond to your specific situation.
