Department of Fine Arts Report

The department is attempting to get off to a great start for the semester all the while there has been much more than usual to maintain in a very busy time. Here is some of what has been happening.

Students and Alumni

- This past August Art History alum Casey Shelton interned with the Monuments Men Foundation for the Preservation of Art in Dallas, Texas; and this month accepted a researcher position discovering and honoring the Monuments Men and their achievements. October 22, the Monuments Men will receive the Congressional Gold Medal at the Capitol and the Foundation will be present, including Shelton, to witness the honor.
- M.F.A. alum Jon Prichard and Leah Cabinum and B.F.A. alum Mike Gentry were part of a performance art series Oct. 21 at Davidson College's Van Every/Smith Galleries in conjunction with the exhibition Regina Jose Galindo: Bearing Witness.
- Additionally, recent B.F.A. alum Walter Ragan Dickson was commissioned by Davidson College to photograph all the activities associated with the Regina Jose Galindo: Bearing Witness project.
- B.F.A. alum Matt Horick was honored Oct. 8 with the unveiling of his commissioned sculpture in the courtyard of the new Comporium Communications headquarters in downtown Rock Hill.
- This weekend, October 16-18, five students from the Guild of Emerging Metalsmiths (GEM) including Renee Holliday, Brandy Scholl, Kitty Nix, Charlie Hickey, and Katie Law traveled with Jewelry Metals professor Anne Fiala to the North Carolina Outer Banks' Columbia, N.C. to take a workshop with Bob Ebendorf and Tim Lazure, Professors of Metalsmithing and Jewelry Design at East Carolina University. The workshop was hosted by Jewelry and Metal Artist Collective of the Carolinas (JMAC) and featured different fabrication techniques in the construction of silver band rings, creating customized texturing tools, and the integration of found objects in jewelry using cold connection techniques.
- Art History Alumni Danielle Herring received her Master's Degree in Egyptology from the University of Liverpool, England this September 2015. Her thesis was titled: Fishing for Answers: A Study on the Significance of the Fish Mummies in New Kingdom Egypt.
- B.F.A. alum Jen Ray opened her exhibition in N.Y. at the albertz benda gallery titled Deep Cuts Oct. 8 – Nov. 7.
- M.F.A. alum Leah Cabinum and Foozhan Kashkooli currently have Residencies at Old Goodyear Store in Charlotte. An opening is scheduled for Friday, October 30.
- B.F.A. alum Brent Owens participated in "Plain Airs," an exhibition opening at the Indianapolis Art Center on September 25th, based on contemporary takes on realist and representational practice. The show will be run through Nov. 11.

Faculty

- Professor Marge Moody's work is part of an exhibition, called SMALL15, on display through Oct. 29. At Front Gallery in N.Y. artists from 24 states and 16 countries submitted entries, and Moody's work was selected by Guest Juror Margaret Krug and a FRONT Selection Panel in a blind-jury process.
